

First County Bank Chief Named to NY Fed's Community Banking Council

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York recently named First County Bank Chairman and CEO Reyno A. Giallongo Jr. a member of its Community Depository Institutions Advisory Council.

The council is composed of representatives from commercial banks, thrifts and credit unions with assets under $10 billion and headquartered in the Second District. The president and first vice president of the New York Fed meet semiannually with the council to discuss economic and financial issues affecting the Second District and other issues affecting community depository institutions.

Giallongo will serve a three-year term.

“I am truly honored to represent my fellow community bankers as a member of the New York Federal Reserve Bank Community Institutions Advisory Council,” he said in a statement. “The role that community banks play in providing services to local families and businesses is critical to the economy and I’m proud to have the opportunity to provide insights from our perspective.”

Read More: <http://www.commercialrecord.com/2016/03/first-county-bank-chief-named-to-ny-feds-community-banking-council/>

