M. Suzette Recinos and Patricia Squires have joined Stamford-based First County Bank as corporators

M. Suzette Recinos and Patricia Squires have joined Stamford-based First County Bank as corporators. A Rowayton resident, Recinos is chief counsel of Stamford-based Pitney Bowes Inc. Before joining Pitney Bowes in 2005, Recinos was an associate at Edwards Angell Palmer & Dodge LLP and at Kutak Rock LLP. She volunteers at Childcare Learning Centers and Pro Bono Partners, and she is the International Committee chairwoman for the Hispanic National Bar Association. Squires has been the executive director of Stamford Emergency Medical Services Inc. since 2002. Earlier, she was an associate at Pullman & Comley LLC, a health care law practice based in Bridgeport, and from 1996 to 2000, an associate at Robinson & Cole LLP. Before earning her law degree from Quinnipiac College School of Law, the Norwalk resident was a practicing nurse at Norwalk Hospital for 10 years. She is a member of the Connecticut Bar Association, Southwest Regional EMS Council and Legislative Committee of the Connecticut EMS Advisory Board.
